Professor Jorge José Gomes Martins, from the University of Minho in Portugal, realized a technical visit to Unifei (Federal University of Itajubá). The visit, coordinated by Professor Vladimir Melian Cobas, is part of the Energy Engineering Masters Degree Program in partnership with NEST (Excellence Group in Thermal Power and Distributed Generation), IEM (Institute of Mechanical Engineering) and FUPAI (Foundation for Research Industry Advisory).

Professor Gomes Martins lectured a course about internal combustion engines, presented the book "Internal Combustion Engines", launched the publication "Electric Vehicles" and gave a lecture on the issue "Electric Cars" for faculty and graduate students. Besides academic activities, the foreign visitor attended several meetings evaluating a possible collaborative project between the University of Minho and Unifei.

Professor Martins has a Ph.D from the University of Birmingham, UK, and has over 30 publications in international journals on internal combustion engines.
